

Photos by Todd and Brad Reed

BEAUTY AND PHOTOGRAPHY

You may not be able to be here for every season, but you don't have to miss any of Ludington's beauty. Stop into the downtown gallery of local photographers Todd and Brad Reed where you can spend hours looking at their stunning prints from this area and beyond. The Reeds are award-winning photographers and have published numerous books. Their cameras capture the most dramatic and spectacular images, especially when Mother Nature stirs things up! Todd and Brad are eager to talk about the stories behind their photos, and readily share tips with visitors to their gallery. Don't leave Ludington without picking up a print, calendar, or book from the Todd and Brad Reed Photo Gallery.

On a cold and blustery day, when most of us are warm and cozy at home, Todd and Brad Reed bravely venture out to the beach. They know that these are the moments that will make a dramatic statement, and can't wait to capture it. The strong winds we often get stir up an angry Lake Michigan, causing huge waves to crash against the Ludington Light and breakwater. And the Reeds are not alone....Stearns Park Beach, usually empty in the off-season, becomes very busy with people and their cameras or phones, ready to catch that special shot.

If you're interested in learning more about nature photography, Todd and Brad Reed provide beginner and advanced photo workshops in the summer and fall, so you can learn their secrets. Learn more online at: www.toddandbradreed.com. ©

